New Series
INED Population Studies

Series editor: É. Brian, J.-M. Rohrbasser

Editor Eric Brian and Jean-Marc Rohrbasser

Editorial Advisory Board Isabelle Attané (INED), Didier Breton (University of Strasbourg), Olivia Ekert-Jaffé (INED), Cécile Lefèvre (University Paris-V), Godelieve Masuy-Stroobant (University of Louvain-la-Neuve), Wilfried Rault (INED), Arnaud Régnier-Loillier (INED), Claudine Sauvain-Dugerdil (University of Geneva)

This book series is devoted to publications of international relevance in population studies and demography as promoted by the French National Institute for Demographic Studies (INED, Paris). As one social science among many, demography is interlinked with related disciplines including sociology, anthropology, history and linguistics, and continuously explores its boundaries with neighbouring disciplines, ranging from epidemiology and biology to economics. The studies published in the series are based on solid empirical research and firm methodological foundations. Particular attention is paid to long-term and collaborative surveys. Guided by its distinguished Editorial Advisory Board, the INED series aims to provide international visibility to works of high academic standard recognized in the French-speaking scientific community. The series supports an internationally acknowledged style of demographic research, championed by INED for more than half a century and rekindled in such fields as the study of demographic situations around the world; the relationship between demographic conditions and development; international comparisons; migration, identities and territories; family studies; gender studies and sexuality; ageing, health and mortality; trajectories, mobility and social networks.

Governing India’s Northeast

Essays on Insurgency, Development and the Culture of Peace

This book focuses on issues of governance and the nature and complexities of social transformation in India’s Northeast -- a ‘problem’ zone for policymakers -- particularly since the early 1990s. While governance is the thread that runs through the volume, the latter at one level addresses the challenges of governing in global times a region historically marked by acute violence, interethnic conflict and insurgency; and at another, traces macro changes in the very forms and technologies of governance. The essays in this volume point to how changing forms and technologies of governing insurgency, development and culture do not remain mere instruments of peace, but define the very nature and content of both peace and conflict and their interrelationship in the region. For the first time in the history of scholarship on the region, the three crucial issues of insurgency, development and culture have been analysed through the lens of governance.

Features

► Sees governance as the problem, rather than as a solution to the problem of insurgency and violence ► Reflects critically on policies and should be of interest to the policymakers and activists ► Three crucial issues of insurgency, development and culture are sought to be understood through the lens of governance

Local Councillors in Europe

Councillors are the essence of local representative democracy, linking ordinary citizens and decision-makers in municipal arenas. In cross-national perspective, and taking in countries from across Europe, this book analyses the recruitment patterns, career, party associations, role perceptions, and attitudes to democracy, representation, and participation of local councillors. Matters such as gender, parties, institutions, municipal reform, functions in governance networks, and councillor influence are considered using data collected in an international survey, covering some 12,000 members of the local political elite. Drawing on diverse and eclectic literature, the contributions in this volume comprise a comprehensive and revealing analysis of modern councillors.
